HARRY

Oh jeez, please don't call my boss. I'm on my last strike with him. Seriously, he'll fire me.

RADIO

If you can get that pizza to my doorstep within two minutes, he'll never know. Follow the arrows. One more thing... you'll need to wear the radio.

HARRY

What?

Harry turns and looks behind him.

RADIO

I'm coming to HA

He turns back, takes a breath, and picks up the radio with his free hand. Cautiously, he proceeds into the shelves.

INT. MAZE (FRONT ALLEY) - NIGHT

Harry squeezes through a particularly tight path, holding the pizza awkwardly in order to fit through.

HARRY

Okay, um, who am I delivering to?

RADIO

Audrey.

Harry turns a corner, and stops. A plank with a rather large stack of old, musty newspapers and magazines blocks the path, forcing him to crawl beneath.

INT. MAZE (ROADBLOCK) - NIGHT

HARRY
 Beat! So, um... elephant in the room. What-what is all this?

Harry bumps his head, knocking free a sinister looking mannequin head which plummets down in front of him.

RADIO

My garage. Although I mostly use it for storage.
